ETHEL CLAYTON HAS LEFT HOLLYWOOD BOUND FOR N. Y.

By CONSTANCE PALMER

Hollywood, Calif. ETHEL CLAYTON left yesterday for New York. Zasu Pitts and Sylvia Ashton were down at the train to see her off, and Miss Clayton's mather; father and brother were there too. Whether or not the latter accompanied her, I don't know. But it is quite likely he did, for he attends to all her business details, and as the trip has something to do with contracts, stage or movic. I wouldn't be surprised.

It was originally announced that Edith Roberts was to be Wally Reed leading woman for "Across the Contiment," but it appears that Miss Robcrts will not be finished with a pleture at the Ince studie. Many McLaren, who has been signed in her stend, will be just about as sharming.

Haroid Lloyd is need in mystery at this stage of filming "He Who Hesitates." No, it's not a secret—he bist has a few glasts to deal with, scripti-

I have two more additions to our stock list, Am I not getting to be the little old announcer, though a Mrs. Ton Mix, who was Victoria Forde, is one, and Natalle Talmadge, now Mrs. Haster Kenton, is the other. And that's the main reason the Talmadges. Norma, Constance and Mrs. Peg.—came out West. I'm stall holding out on you, though, but I promised not in tell yet.

Wildam D. Taylor, as representing the Directors' Association, has come out with a plen for catting detect theatre programs in connection with the showing of pictures; in other woods, the showing of petures, in older fewer convertile acts, no protegoes (for which heaven be praised); and less music. It's all a very good idea except the music. It is a treat to listen to the really good orchestras which the larger theatres are assembling. Why don't you all express a mions on what you renly want? After all, they're your theatres and it's your entertain-

FEWER LOCATIONS,

Excellent examples of can be found in George Fitzmairice's production of "Forever," an adaptation of the Deacon home were built on the stage at the Lasky studio in Holla-wood; in "The Last Romance," which showed a Spanish patio and interior the home in the same setting; and in "Is Matrimony a Fallure?" a spe-cial Janes ("ruze coincily started at the West coast studio into in November In the latter meture the molern In the latter picture the molecular tendency in combining exteriors and in-teriors probably is best illustrated. A street intersection of a molecular town was built at the Lasky ranch, showing the principal business section of the town. The bank, both and butcher shop were so built that when the exterior scenes were "shot" the com-

The work is now done so well that it often impossible these days to tel which scenes on the screen are natural and which have been constructed by the art department.

The role of Rupert of Hentzan has been entrusted to Ramon Samaniegos, a young Spaniard, whose screen career dates back hardly a year. In bringing these players to prominence, Mr. Ingram follows the policy of making "type" the all-important consideration, just as he did when he lifted Alice Terry and Rudolph Valentino from comparative obscurity to the leading roles in "The Four Horse-children will pay them many fold for their girl five years old. I wish to have some toys. I am paralyzed on one hand and one foot. You know what I would like. Lots of love from Mary B."

This is but one of many letters which have been written by the children in the Philadelphia General Hospital at Thirty-fourth street and Woodland avenue. The babies, who cannot write themselves, lisp an eager dictation to the nurses and, with tiny fists tucked under wan little cheeks, fall to sleep happily, confident that Santa will bring the things they want.

Children will pay them many fold for their own sais and seven. Some members took two letters, others as many as six and seven. Mothers, with tears in their eyes, as they thought of their own babies, happy and secure in homes, held out eager hands for the lead-penciled requests of the lay of days will be appreciated and loved with all the ferver of a blg, buby heart.

One letter which caused amusement came from Jinmie E.:

"Dear Santa—I am a sick good bey. I want some cake and candy and two things they want. things they want.

And such a wealth of things they do want. One little boy ,ten years old. writes for a "sled, bleyele, pair of skates, a watch and chain, a set of carpenter's tools, a water pistol, pair of shoes, a violin, horn, a football and some candy."
